Injured pelicans sought

BY DENA BISNETTE
Wildlife rehabilitation workers were unable to capture an injured brown pelican sighted near Washington Street Saturday, but have asked area residents to watch for the bird and others like it.

Robin Berry, director of the animal rehabilitation center for Wildlife Rehabilitation and Nature Preservation Society (WRANPS) said the bird was suffering from frostbite damage. It was apparently one of a number of birds injured during the December 1989 freeze, she stated. A number of others have been found and turned into the center, including several caught in Hancock County. The injured birds may have dark, torn or rotted-looking feet and have difficulty walking, or may have holes in their pouches which interfere with feeding. Injured birds may stay in the same area for several days. "We recommend that you observe the bird from a distance because if you try to approach it, it may fly away as the one reported Saturday did," she stated.

Berry said anyone who finds a bird during normal business hours should call the center at 452-WILD in Pass Christian. In the event that center volunteers are out of the office, the call will be recorded on a machine that is being monitored at half-hour intervals.

If an injured bird is found after 5 p.m., Hancock County residents may call a volunteer from Diamondhead, Mary Jane Wolfe, at 255-9470.

Berry also recommended that a trained WRANPS volunteer be contacted for assistance before any attempt to capture a pelican is made.

She explained that many of the birds being found now are too badly injured to recover, but the pelicans are still useful because for a research project on their injuries and illness. That project is being conducted by Audubon in New Orleans, the director added.

Wilcox leads ticket for school board seat

Unofficial results of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District election indicate that there will be a run-off between the two leading candidates, James D. Wilcox and Ruth Thompson on March 17.

Unofficial totals for the individual candidates are: Frank E. Baktis, 71 votes; Danny Carter, 147 votes; Ruth Thompson, 175 votes; and James D. Wilcox, 278 votes.

Polls will be open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. at Waveland Elementary School for the run-off.

The new school board member will take office on April 9 prior to the board's regular meeting, unless a special meeting is called before that date, Superintendent of Education Robert Magee stated.

About 500 people had voted by mid-afternoon, which Magee stated was better than in past elections. He attributed the increased participation to expanded poll hours.

A total of 659 voters went to the polls Saturday to cast their ballots. In addition there were 12 affidavit ballots counted.

Service groups offer aid to ammo plant workers

BY DENA BISNETTE
Soon-to-be laid off employees of the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant may have more than one place to turn for help.

Hancock County, Pearl River County, Picayune and Bay St. Louis officials met Thursday morning with representatives of several agencies which may be able to provide assistance to some of the 1,600 employees expected to be laid off as the plant goes into mothballs.

Bernie Anderson, spokesman for Mason-Chamberlain Inc., the contractor operating the plant, said an outplacement center will be opened Monday on the site to accept resumes and provide a few other services.

He added that he will consider a suggestion from several public officials, who asked that space be provided at the plant for counselors from several assistance agencies.

A group of representatives from these agencies and from local economic development organizations will meet at the plant Friday for additional discussion of the problems the laid off workers face.

The organizations involved include the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, the Dislocated Workers Unit of the state's Department of Economic and Community Development, the State Job Training Coordinating Council and South Mississippi Planning and Development Commission.

Also included are Mississippi Employment Commission, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, Mississippi Service Delivery Area's Labor Assistance Division, Mississippi Economic Development Administration, and Gulf Coast Business Services, which administers Job Training Partnership Act programs on the Mississippi coast.

The Governor's Rapid Response Team has also appointed a task force to examine opportunities for various services, including new job training. According to Jane Black, who represented the response team, the group consists of heads of various agencies offering basic dislocated worker services ranging from counseling and placement to new training.

Some positive news came from Pearl River Community College President Ted Alexander, who explained a series of grants and loans available for dislocated workers. Most of these educational grants do not have the usual family income limitations and can provide funds for a worker to help support his family while he obtains vocational-technical training, he explained.

JTPA also has some programs which can help, according to Chuck Ueltschey, State Job Training Coordinating Council chairman.

One of the biggest problems that the workers can expect to face is the lack of suitable jobs in this area, stated Tad Black, a representative of one of the unions at the plant, United Auto Workers. The majority of the job placements the union could offer, he said, would take the workers out of Mississippi altogether.

This is particularly true for production workers, for whom the only other possibility would be the Regina-Electrolux plant at Long Beach, which Black said is not hiring now.

Curtis Bartlett, representing United Guard Workers of America, represented the security workers at the plant. That union is also searching for job placements in other areas.

Among the concerns that public officials at the meeting expressed were effects that layoffs and possible relocations will have on the local economy.

EPA deletes non-fibrous type of aluminum oxide from list

Non-fibrous forms of aluminum oxide, a byproduct of NASA's planned Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) test program, has been deleted from the toxic chemical list by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, according to the Federal Register.

According to extensive research conducted by the EPA, the chemical was deleted from the toxic list after extensive studies have shown it to cause no adverse health or environmental effects.

Although aluminum had been implicated in Alzheimer's Disease, the EPA stated that neither aluminum nor aluminum oxide has been found to play a role in the disease. The ruling supports NASA's position that ASRM testing will not be harmful to people or the environment.

NASA officials said, however, that this delisting in no way reduces or changed the federal and state environmental standards NASA must meet.

Aluminum oxide is still regulated as a particulate or "dust" under the standards of the Clean Air Act regulations. The delisting means that as a non-toxic material, the requirement to report release of non-fibrous forms of aluminum oxide no longer exists under the Emergency Planning and Community Right to Know Act.

NASA plans to test the ASRM at John C. Stennis Space Center in Hancock County, beginning in late 1993.

Vietnam Memorial designs reduced to four finalists

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
The Mississippi Vietnam Veteran's Memorial's architectural designs have been reduced from 20 possibilities to four.

A jury selected by the American Institute of Architecture met last week in Atlanta to narrow the architectural designs to three, Henry Cook III, state memorial chairman, said.

"The selection committee could not get its selections down to three in the architectural design competition. The selection group ended up with three finalists and an honorable mention," Cook reported.

All 20 of the designs were by Mississippi architectural firms.

Cook said, "The three finalists received $5,000 and the honorable mention, $2,500, to be used to build a site plan and detailed model of the memorial."

The designs were all on display at the capital in Jackson on Wednesday.

The final architectural design from the four will be selected by a panel and unveiled by Governor Ray Mabus on May 12, Cook said.

Cook reported that he will be in Jackson on Tuesday to meet with the four selectees and offer input to the details that will go into the models.

The memorial fund has a goal of $1.5 million and now has $194,500 in pledges and there is another $194,000 under consideration.

Cost estimates by the final architects range from $787,000 to $1,300,000, Cook said.

The recent site controversy in Biloxi has delayed Cook's efforts by five weeks, but now has been resolved.

"The Point Cadet Development Corporation has requested that the City of Biloxi provide a parcel of land large enough for the memorial at the Point Cadet Waterfront Project," Cook stated.

A lease for the land is scheduled to be received by the memorial committee on March 12.

A move had been in the works to bring in an aircraft carrier for the project, but was changed after a Biloxi public hearing on the matter.

The Vietnam Memorial Committee has received support from many organizations including the State Department of The American Legion.

Bay St. Louis American Legion Post 139 went on record in February, with its membership unanimously supporting the memorial.

A detailed estimate of costs and materials is to be provided by the remaining architects when the finalist is selected, Cook reported.

Persons interested in making a contribution can send it to The Mississippi Vietnam Veterans Memorial, P.O. Box 100, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

AMERICAN LEGION POST 139 Commander Richard Brehm receives a Mississippi Vietnam Veterans Memorial pin from Henry Cook III, chairman of the memorial committee. The pins are being sold to raise some of the funds needed for the monument and can be obtained from Cook. (Echo staff photo by Janet McQueen)

Christians draw closer to church during Lent

BY JANE MCQUEEN

Following a full day of Mardi Gras festivities on Tuesday, area Catholics and Episcopalians awakened Wednesday morning to begin a 40-day journey to Easter.

The time draws many closer to the church, as they prepare, with Christians of other denominations, to commemorate the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church pastor, the Reverend Peter Mockler, notes the congregation attending daily Masses "at least quadruples" during the Lenten season, reflecting the spiritual renewal many church members seek.

Traditional Catholic Lenten practices include fasting, abstinence from meat, almsgiving and prayer—with the choice determined by an individual.

"Giving up" something one enjoys is a Lenten tradition many grew up with; whether it be sweets, television or smoking.

The message today in several churches is to accentuate the positive.

Philip Williams, president of St. Rose de Lima Parish Council, plans to observe the Lenten season in a different manner this year.

"For the past five years I have given up something for Lent. The message we received Sunday (from pastor Rev. Ken Hamilton) was to add something to our lives rather than make an exclusion. I plan to do something positive for someone," said Williams.

Rev. Mockler suggests "Rather than just giving up 'fast food,' save the money you would have spent to help those less fortunate."

The Rev. Arthur Johnson, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis, relates his congregation observes Lent as a time of spiritual reflection, emphasizing the importance of prayer.

David Hubbard of Waveland, a member of St. Clare Catholic Church, said "Praying is positive, as is helping the needy. Exemplifying a forgiving, Christian attitude toward others is often more than difficult than the denial of something you enjoy.

"It's not always easy to be a Christian, not judging others and reaching out to help people. This is the essence of Lent."

Community Day of Prayer Service scheduled Friday

Main Street United Methodist Church will host the annual Community Day of Prayer on Friday, March 9, at 10 A.M. The program will last approximately one hour.

This service is an annual event of the Lenten Season sponsored by the local association of ministers. It has been held over the years in many of the churches in this area.

The Community Day of Prayer is interdenominational and ecumenical in nature. It is intended only to provide the worship experience and promote Christian fellowship. Everyone is invited to attend.

There will be a congregational singing, prayers, special music and discussion by three lay speakers on the subject of prayer.

The offering will be given to the Ministers' Emergency Relief, an organized charitable entity in Hancock County.

"Please put the date of this event on your calendar now. Come and enrich your Lenten experience with your friends and neighbors next Friday morning," said spokesperson Mrs. David McDonald.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

Do you think you can act?

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre is looking for 12 people, male and female, from ages 20 to 60.

The next production, "Any Number Can Die," is scheduled for May 24, 25 and 26 and June 1 and 2.

Reading for selection will be held this afternoon at 3 p.m. at the Boardman Avenue Playhouse. Additional readings will be done at 7 p.m. Monday.

"Any Number Can Die" is a comedy take-off on the mystery plays of the late 1920's.

If you feel you can act, then this may be the play that leads you to stardom.

Further information is available from Ed Scanlan at 467-7107.

Good luck to those who respond.

In case you were interested in free boating instructions and were unable to participate in those at Diamondhead, you have another chance.

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 35 of Pass Christian will provide free boating safety classes beginning at 7:30 p.m., March 8 at the Pass Christian Public Library behind the City Hall.

I know there are a lot of boaters around the area and rules and regulations change from time to time. This would even be a good opportunity for experienced seamen.

The course consists of 12 selected chapters on safe boating practices and procedures.

Classes are to be held on three consecutive Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Instructions are at no cost to the participants and course material will be $10.50 for books, study guides, etc. of which the student will maintain.

Safe boating to all!

It is getting near Little League, Babe Ruth League, T-ball and softball time for area youth.

All Bay St. Louis Little League officials will attend a 7 p.m. meeting on March 12 at the Bay St. Louis City Hall in order to reserve field dates and schedule tryouts.

I know there are several youngsters who cannot wait for the ball games to begin. It is not only a pastime for the young, as I also see many of the older residents who enjoy the play year after year.

Frank Perniciaro, Parks and Playgrounds director reminds those who want to reserve Commergere Field, they must attend the March 12 meeting.

Congratulations to Paul Montjoy on being named the new general manager of Diamondhead's Property Owners Association.

Montjoy has been involved at Diamondhead as a former project manager and has been active in many of the community's projects.

Best of Luck to Paul in his new position.

FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

By Mike Moore

Unfortunately, child abuse is a problem in Mississippi

It's no secret to anyone who reads a newspaper or watches television that more and more of our children are being abused—both physically and sexually.

In Mississippi last year there were more than 12,000 child-abuse reports made to county welfare departments. And that was in addition to the ones made directly to law enforcement.

Child abuse by itself is bad enough for the child and for the family, but it doesn't exist by itself.

Unless the abused child is helped, and helped quickly, he or she often turns away from society—to drugs, to gangs, to delinquency, to teenage pregnancy, to abuse of others, and then to adult criminal behavior. Everybody is hurt by child abuse.

So what can you do to protect your own children and the children around you? There are many things you can do.

First, as a parent, you can protect your children by making them unlikely targets of child abuse, in the home or out of it.

If your child is a baby, never use physical force as punishment. A baby is too small and helpless; even a small shake or slap can be dangerous to an infant.

If your child is a toddler, make sure he is closely supervised. Toddlers won't respond to a "don't talk to strangers" warning; their whole world is strange and new. They are naturally curious and responsive. Don't let them stray out of your sight long enough to be in danger.

If your child is school age, his/her best protection is the companionship and friendship of peers. Child molesters look for the "loner," the child who can be easily led away from the pack. Children who have close friends and confidants are also much less likely to keep abuse a secret.

Also encourage your children to come to you with any problems, including problems with other family members. As hard as it is to accept and to deal with, most abuse does occur at home, between family members.

You can also help by reporting child abuse.

Mississippi law requires that you report any reasonable suspicion of child abuse. You don't have to know that abuse is

Message to Mississippians: education, ducation, education

Some of the nation's government and business heavy hitters were on a South Mississippi platform together recently, coming to the Gulf Coast from four different states.

But their message was the same. The four greatest needs in Mississippi, they agreed, are ... Education ... Education ... Education and Education.

All four have a stake in Mississippi. Two were major manufacturers, the third was director of the Stennis Space Center, and the fourth was chairman of an economics department at a neighboring state university whose work and influence spills over into Mississippi.

The four were on the platform as guests of the Hancock Bank headquartered in Gulfport, speaking at the bank's annual economic symposium.

They were there, among other reasons, to suggest some ways Mississippi can improve itself economically.

They all focused on higher education and the need for the state to produce graduates able to compete in the high-tech arena of the decade on the nineties and into the twenty-first century.

One speaker even documented the fact that high-tech industry is locating today in states making the greatest investments in higher education.

And another said his company is searching for a well-educated, well-trained force with roots in Mississippi.

The message to Mississippi is clear and plain: Education ... Education ... Education.

REPORT FROM THE SENATE

by Sen. Vic Franckiewicz Jr.

The thousands of federal retirees on the coast have been keenly interested in state taxes on federal retirement benefits. Currently, state retirements are exempt from taxes while federal pensions are not.

This unjust situation was addressed by the Senate, but the results did not benefit federal retirees. All of us in the coastal delegation supported an amendment to exempt all retirement benefits from state taxation.

This provision failed; the full Senate equalized taxation on state and federal retirement benefits by exempting the first $5,000 of each. The House of Representatives passed a similar provision, but it exempts the first $7,500 of benefits. There will be a conference committee to iron out the differences.

Another item of importance to the coast was the $20 million matching money to deepen the Port of Gulfport. These funds were included in an overall economic development funding package.

In a separate funding package, FRANKIEWICZ—Page 5A

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ebony Pearls were victims at Pass Christian parade

Dear Editor:

I am addressing this letter to some irresponsible adults in a sense of outrage. I was appalled at their conduct on Feb. 25, 1990 during the Pass Christian Mardi Gras Parade.

The bitter racist comments and physical assaults perpetrated against the Ebony Pearl Drill Team while they performed in the parade were disgusting, stupid and vicious.

Beer was thrown on the all girl team - age 5-16. Several obnoxious persons forced themselves into the group's formation, telling them to 'go back to Africa' in crude and obscene language. People used their beads to further harass the children and several were hit in the face with beads thrown by these so-called adults.

People! these are children. How could you do this to children? This is the first time the girls encountered such hostile and overt racism. They were visibly shaken and emotionally upset.

Something has to be done about this type of behavior. We will not tolerate this behavior.

Acts of racial discrimination like these perpetuate Mississippi's reputation on race relations. A positive change in the future will not come to pass if this behavior is allowed to continue.

Unnecessary violence ruins Pass parade

To the Editor:

While we were at the Pass parade, we witnessed several fights. Innocent people were injured and harassed.

I also talked to several people who witnessed the same thing - different incidents.

Then, a couple of cops harassed people for no apparent reason.

Every time I have gone to the Pass parade, things of this sort have happened.

Next year, and thereafter, I will be sure to miss the Pass parade.

Dog hunter responds to still hunters' criticism

Dear Editor:

I would like to take an opportunity to address the road hunting laws and the dog running of deer from a dog hunters view.

I recently received a letter from the Mississippi Stillhunters Association, asking me to join up and fight for the road hunting law and for getting more days to still hunt.

First of all, why are they so worried about the road hunting law? It doesn't hurt them any if I'm out on the road hunting since they are supposed to be in the woods using their "expertise" to kill a deer, which usually involves a pile of corn close by.

That just shows me that they will use any excuse to say something about the dog hunters. Every time some little incident happens, it gets blamed on dog hunters, when it could have been a still hunter that trespassed on someone's land and shot somebody's house.

We don't have to be seen doing anything, the blame always gets put on dog hunters. They never tell you about the time that they killed a deer that my dogs ran by them while they were still hunting, they only say "Those dogs messed up my whole day."

The way I see it, if you don't want dogs around you in the woods, then don't join a dog hunting club and don't hunt an area that is open to the public where they run dogs. We have never said anything about the way stillhunters hunt, but if it keeps on, we can open up a lot about the use of corn doing their hunting for them.

As far as having more days to still hunt, you have 42 days in bow season, 14 days primitive weapons, and 8 days regular gun season. That is a total of 64 days in the woods without dogs. That's a lot more time than the 39 days that us dog runners have, and we put more money into the Mississippi economy than you do.

I would like to see the Mississippi Department of Wildlife extend the season from January 17 - January 31 as a stillhunt-ing, bucks only, gun season, but don't be taking away my way of hunting to do that.

That would add another 14 days to your stillhunting time, for a total of 78 days with no dogs, which is not counting the 39 dog days which you can also hunt.

Most stillhunters that I know do not mind if dogs are circulating near by because they know that they might kill a slip deer that my dogs have spooked.

I have one more point on the road hunting law. Just because I am wearing a piece of orange clothing while I am parked beside a public road does not make it a crime to park there.

My daddy taught me not to shoot down a road, or shoot the bushes just because they were shaking, and to always know where my line of fire is. If anybody knows what a rifle or shotgun is capable of doing, a deer hunter knows.

I would like to know what the statistics are on people getting shot or having their houses get shot by road deer hunters compared to drunk drivers killing people.

You want to hang me for parking on a public road with a loaded gun in my truck, but you will let a drunk driver who just killed a car load of women and children walk free with a slap on his hand. To me, you have your priorities in the wrong place.

I know there are bad hunters who don't care about safety or people's property, both stillhunters and dog runners. Those are the people we need to get out of the woods.

If we don't quit fighting against each other, these so-called humane societies are going to stop it all for everybody. They say it is cruel and inhumane to hunt down and kill a wild animal, but they still sit down to eat steaks, pork chops, and chicken. They should see what kind of a chance those animals have of getting away.

Sincerely,
John Kevin Stewart

The right to courtesy should not be ignored

It amazes me how people can sometimes become something less than people because they provide services.

The above is not a typographical error. Less is exactly the word I intended to use.

I say this because I see how some of the people receiving services treat those providing them. Most people, of course, maintain basic courtesy about 98 percent of the time. We'd ought to do it 100 percent of the time, but no one is perfect.

An example of a person who feels that a service provider doesn't have the right to basic human considerations, such as courtesy, is the customer who loudly criticizes the only waitress in the restaurant when it's obvious that she's trying exceptionally hard to handle an unexpected crowd.

Sometimes I get in a hurry and dish out some undeserved criticism like this. I should know better, though. I used to be a waitress.

I had customers so abusive I felt like breaking my tray over their heads, but I forced myself remain polite. One learns not to take such things personally, but it doesn't make the anger go away.

Other examples include a parent, when his child has just received his first traffic ticket, who automatically declares that the policeman is picking on the young driver without bothering to find out what happened; or who blames a teacher for a child's failing grades yet repeatedly fails to accept invitations to a parent-teacher conference.

Every single one of these situations could be avoided if one of the parties involved simply stopped to think before saying anything or taking action.

Do you suppose the people who shouted insults at the little Ebony Pearls dancers at the Pass Christian Mardi Gras parade and hit them in the faces with thrown objects stopped to think? It's obvious. They did not.

The members of this dance group had volunteered to provide a service—entertainment. And, the one thing that should have been most obvious to those who were so rude to these dancers was lost on them—they acted as if they didn't know these performers are children.

Consider what such people are teaching these children. Not only were they unappreciative of the performance, they insisted on treating these youngsters as if they were less than people.

I've been treated that way before and it could have been avoided. The woman in the grocery store who jumped on me because she felt her child's school did not receive enough publicity through The Sea Coast Echo could have called me at the office the next day. She could have simply considered the hour, which, incidentally, was well after 11 p.m.

This reminded me of the many newly elected politicians who have told me about calls from their constituents at 5 a.m., or during traditional dinner hours. Some complain that they have lost their privacy.

I say no: their right to common courtesy, as well as privacy, has been invaded. It's something one must accept to a degree when one is visible to the public, but it shouldn't be necessary because people shouldn't do it to you in the first place.

I've had it done to me. I arrived back out the office one day recently to find that someone had dropped into the office more than an hour late for an appointment and had then called the place where I usually have lunch. Can you politicians top that one?

It goes into the file with what I call "maniac calls," in which people bitterly complain about something or other with having the courtesy to go through proper channels or even identify themselves. Often, they claim to represent organization who have no knowledge of their complaints.

The only good thing about such conduct is that 95 percent of people don't make a habit of it.

occurring to report it, and your name will be kept confidential unless the abuse is substantiated by an investigation and you are needed as a witness in court. At this point, your testimony may be vital in protecting the child from further abuse.

The law also gives you immunity from civil suit for any child abuse report that was made in good faith. This means that if you call and report a suspected case of abuse, you cannot be held liable in any suit which may be filed because of that report. However, there is no immunity for failure to report child abuse.

If you are in a position of responsibility for a child, i.e., a parent, guardian, teacher, day-care worker, minister, etc., and you know that the child is being abused and do not report it, you could be sued on behalf of the abused child.

There have been successful suits brought in Mississippi against school officials and against a church and minister for such failure to report.

Reports of abuse should be made by telephone to the county Department of Human Services as soon as possible after the abuse is known or suspected. An intake worker will then investigate and take whatever steps are necessary to protect the child.

Remember that reports of child abuse do not always lead to criminal trials. In most Mississippi communities, teams consisting of social service workers, medical personnel, prosecutors and law enforcement work together on a case-age, we approved a long-term capital financing program which would fund improvements at Buccaneer State Park, Pearl River Community College, Gulf Coast Community College, the USM Gulf Park campus, Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, and the South Mississippi Mental Retardation Center.

Many of these improvements will be paid back by self-generated revenues or by federal funds, as the impact to our strained state budget is minimal.

This type of sensible, businesslike capital improvement planning has been heavily promoted by Governor Mabus. The Governor and his staff are to be congratulated on taking a good long-term view of the state's needs.

In other business, we slugged through about 90 appropriation bills, and the process was not pleasant. State agency budget requests always exceed available revenue, and the Legislature has the tough job of cutting back to provide a balanced budget.

If we funded programs at their present levels and added only the new items mandated by law, such as the maximum security unit at Parchman and equity funding of education, we would have a deficit.

Seeing no sentiment for a major tax increase, the Senate reduced most state agency budgets three percent below their present level to stay within expected revenue.

We did exempt a few budgets from these cuts such as homestead exemption, debt service, tax refunds, the Minimum Program funds for public education, and federal match money such as Medicaid which yields four federal dollars for every state dollar.

In addition, agencies which operate on fees or other indirect funds were exempted from cuts, an exemption with which I strongly disagree.

Certain agencies are supported by "special funds" which are automatically earmarked for those agencies. The special fund agencies have become the sacred cows of state government, and they are often exempt from legislative review for political reasons.

About 56 percent of the state budget is now in special funds. In my mind, it is irresponsible for the Legislature not to look more closely at these funds.

The appropriations bills passed by the Senate include a pay raise for state employees and the full $22 million for equity funding to assure that students receive quality education no matter how poor their school district may be.

Funding for the major education reform package based on the Governor's "BEST" proposal has not been addressed yet. This is only the first step in the funding process; the numbers will change before final budgets are adopted.

I would be glad to hear your views on any issue. You may write to me at the Mississippi Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, Mississippi 39215 or call 359-3770. On weekends, I can be reached at 467-2399.

EYES II

The final episode of "Eyes on the Prize II," at 9 p.m., Monday, March 5, on Mississippi ETC, gets "Back to the Movement" as the series concludes with a look back at the people who made this movement a force for change in America.

This program recounts events from 1979 to the mid '80s, a time when Miami's black community -- pummeled by urban renewal, a lack of jobs and police harassment -- explodes in rioting.

FIREFIGHTING ABILITY INCREASED—Post 58 Volunteer Fire and Rescue donated a two and one-half inch valve to Hancock North Central School to enhance firefighting capabilities at that location. The valve was installed by Eddie Danzey and co-workers at the request of school board members. A joint test of pressure is demonstrated by Post 58, Kiln and Leetown Fire Departments.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Let's bring out the fish stories now that Lent is here - stories, that is, of ways to cook up fish and shellfish, fresh or frozen or even canned, and then let's check out our area supermarkets for the items we need!

If you choose some of the catfish fillets at Jitney Jungle and Winn-Dixie, for instance, check out this past Thursdays "Cooking Up a Storm" column for a suggestion, Catfish Meuniere - fillets sauteed in butter or margarine, sauced with white wine. Or, perhaps you'd prefer your catfish fried or baked or cooked with tomato sauce; however you cook it, you'll enjoy it!

Or, you might bring home some of the potatoes on special at National and Winn-Dixie, and serve steaming bowls of:

CATFISH CHOWDER

1 lb. catfish fillets
4 potatoes, peeled and sliced
1/2 cup diced salt pork (optional)
1 small onion, diced
2 cups milk
Pepper, salt to your taste
Cook the fish slowly in a small amount of water until it flakes when tried with a fork. Remove fish and flake. Cook the potatoes in the fish water until tender.

Fry out the salt pork, if using it, add the onion and cook slowly until lightly browned. (If not using the salt pork, just fry the onion in a little oil.) Add, with the fish, to the potatoes in the fish water.

Next, pour the milk into the onion pan, heat and add to the chowder. Season to your taste with the salt and pepper.

Crushed crackers may be added to the chowder if you wish. (Four servings) - from Pots, Pans and Pioneers, II Telephone Pioneers of America, Louisiana Council.

With canned tuna on special at Winn-Dixie, you might stray from the tuna salad, tuna and spaghetti casserole and such tried and true dishes and cook:

SWEET AND SOUR TUNA

2 cans (7 oz.) water packed tuna
2 Tbsp. cooking oil
1 can (20 oz.) pineapple chunks in juice
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
1 Tbsp. soy sauce
2 cups diced green peppers
1 cup chicken bouillon
2 Tbsp. cider vinegar
1/2 cup sugar
3 cups cooked rice
Saute the bell pepper in oil until soft. Add the pineapple with its juice and three-quarters of the cup of chicken bouillon, and bring to a boil. Dissolve the cornstarch in the remaining bouillon and add to the boiling sauce.

Add the vinegar, soy sauce and sugar. Simmer until it thickens and clears. Drain the tuna and fold it into the sauce. Serve over the rice. (Six servings) - also from Pots, Pans and Pioneers, II.

If your choice is the bottom round boneless beef steak on special at Delchamps, you might cook up this version of chili:

TEXAS CHILI CON CARNE

1 1/2 lbs boneless beef bottom round, cut in small dice
3 Tbsp. vegetable oil
1 1/4 cups thinly sliced onion
1 cup chopped green peppers
1 can (29 Oz.) tomatoes
2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. freshly ground pepper
2 Tbsp. chili powder
1 clove garlic, minced
1 can (16 oz.) kidney beans
Trim fat from the meat. Heat the oil in a saucepan, and saute the onions and green peppers 10 minutes. Add the meat and brown over medium heat, stirring frequently.

Mix in the tomatoes, salt, pepper, chili powder and garlic. Cover and cook over low heat 2 hours. Add the beans, taste for seasoning and cook 10 minutes longer. (Six to eight servings) - from The Complete Round-the-World Meat Cookbook by Myra Waldo.

I've just picked up some of the yellow squash from Jitney Jungle, along with a couple of bunches of broccoli. I'll use some of each in a good green salad, along with lettuce from National and green onions from Winn-Dixie.

Some of the squash I'll saute with sliced onions from Delchamps. As for the broccoli, I think that I shall indulge myself a bit, and combine it with a good cheese sauce, and top it all with buttered crumbs and bake. So much for self denial!

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

God loses in the polls

If a popularity pool were taken today, pitting God against the people and events around the globe, where would God finish?

Evidently, far down the list, if not dead last. As pessimistic as this may sound, consider the apparent facts of the matter.

God—who else?—gives us 168 hours each week. According to the most recent polls on religious belief and church attendance, not even a majority of Americans consistently return one of those hours to God through formal worship in church or through informal worship by private prayers at home or elsewhere.

In view of this fact, can there be any doubt about the position God would occupy in any popularity poll?

Do you have any illusions that God would finish anywhere but low overall in the polls and second best to most personalities and events?

Johnny Carson, Arsenio Hall, David Letterman and Pat Sajak, who are universally popular, will all list God substantially at the bottom for grabs in a popularity poll among Americans. So would Oprah Winfrey, Phil Donahue and Gerald R. Ford.

A much larger group would be dozens, if not hundreds, of the rock, rhythm and blues or country singers, especially superstars like Madonna, Michael Jackson and Tina Turner. No poll would be needed here either.

Even though many people would be willing to swear that they place God above these stars, their habit of listening to hours of their music says resoundingly otherwise.

Steffi Graf, Michael Jordan, Flo-Jo, Bo Jackson and Joe Montana can leave God in the dust every time in any popularity poll.

If you don't believe it, just consult the Nielsen ratings for games involving any of those superstars and compare their ratings to the percentage of church attendance. Even most of the churchgoers spend many more hours with TV than in church.

Many people despise the soap operas, but, again, God would be a poor also-ran in a head-on popularity poll with almost any but the most dismal of the soaps. One would have to say practically the same thing for the ever-popular game shows.

God would likewise draw a sad second to most of the movies, whether of the TV or the cinema variety. This is a situation which is so obvious that no one would bother to conduct a poll.

In a poll between God and the concert halls, the dance halls, the entertainment spots, the gaming houses, the race tracks and the night clubs, God might fall off the charts entirely for many.

Football, basketball and baseball widows would assure us that God would—and does—run an abysmal second, if not less, in a head-to-head popularity poll with the sport of choice for most men, because they immerse themselves in athletics.

When we use the term popularity poll, understand not what people say, but what they actually do, because what they actually do and pursue is the only true measure of what is truly their choice in any particular matter.

Most people say the right things and engage in wishful thinking about pursuing them, but relatively few have the faith, conviction and drive to follow through.

Numerous voters in a popularity poll might say otherwise, but their reading habits proclaim that cozying up to a good book or article is much more engrossing, fascinating and meaningful than spending as much time in communication with God.

Apart from perhaps morning and evening prayers, grace before meals and maybe one formal hour of worship each week, where does God stand in the poll of your own use of the day's hours?

Childbirth classes begin Monday

Hancock Medical Center will begin another prepared childbirth class for all parents-to-be starting on March 5. The classes are taught by Janet Polozola, HMC's childbirth educator. They are free and open to the public.

The course meets in Hancock Medical Center's classroom on Monday nights from 7 to 9 p.m. for a four week period.

Classes cover general prenatal topics including films and lectures on breathing and relaxation, exercise and nutrition during pregnancy, what to expect from childbirth, the birth process and decisions for feeding babies. It is recommended both parents attend classes.

For those interested in early labor classes, during first and second trimester of pregnancy, there is a special class offered.

This segment covers concerns of parents during pregnancy, as well as information about early nutrition and early prenatal exercises.

Now lavette items will be given to certain parents choosing to deliver at Hancock Medical Center. These items are to be donated by Riverview Homemakers and Main Street Methodist Church.

Those interested in prepared childbirth classes or the early labor segment should call Hancock Medical Center, 467-9081, Ext. 2330, to reserve a space in class.

T-shirts ask kids to "Say Nope to Dope"

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department and Southern Printing and Silkscreening are attempting to heighten community awareness of the drug problem with free T-shirts.

The "Dope Buster—Say Nope to Dope" children's T-shirts are being distributed to area students in grades kindergarten through three.

Sponsors are being sought to defray the costs and contributions are accepted at the Hancock County Sheriff's Department on Court Street in Bay St. Louis or Southern Printing office, 211 E. Second St., Pass Christian.

Checks should be made payable to "Hancock County Drug Shirt".

MICHAEL RAMEY, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ramey Sr. of Pass Christian models his "Say Nope to Dope" T-shirt.

Tutoring set for elementary children

University of Southern Mississippi/Gulf Coast education students will tutor a limited number of elementary children in reading this spring at USM/Gulf Park in Long Beach and USM/Jackson County in Gautier.

Area students now in grades 1-6 who have reading difficulties will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis and tutored by USM students enrolled in the sponsoring class -- Diagnosis and Remediation of Reading Difficulties for the Classroom Teacher.

Twelve tutoring sessions are set from 3:15 to 4:05 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning March 19. Participants' parents will be involved in an orientation session and a follow-up conference.

Interested parents may call Dr. Nancy Masztal at USM/Gulf Park in Long Beach (865-4512) or Dr. Carol Reed at USM/Jackson County in Gautier (497-3636).

We need you.

Heart disease isn't the nation's leading killer.

Denying the symptoms is.

Don't deny yourself
a longer, fuller life.

You can deny the symptoms of heart disease, but it won't go away. Your symptoms may pass, but the damage goes on. Often until it's too late.

Be especially alert to the symptoms of a heart attack. Chest pain and pressure are the most common. Pain may radiate down your arm, shoulders or neck. There's also shortness of breath. Cold sweat. Dizziness. Faintness and nausea.

Sometimes only a few symptoms occur.

Sometimes more. Sometimes the symptoms can even be due to another problem.

Only one thing is certain. The sooner heart problems are treated, the better your chance of recovering to live a normal, healthy life.

That's why we're here. The Heart Emergency Service at NorthShore Regional Medical Center is the first of its kind in this area. Located in our Emergency Department, we save lives by detecting heart problems rapidly and providing necessary treatment.

If you experience any symptoms of a heart attack, get immediate medical attention. Anytime, day or night, you can call our emergency 24-Hour Heartline™ at 1-800-HEART13. An emergency care professional is available around the clock to answer questions, give advice or even dispatch an ambulance if necessary.

The Heart Center at NorthShore Regional Medical Center offers a complete range of cardiac care services. That's important to you during those first critical hours following a heart attack. And although you'll probably never need them, it's good to know our heart team is available 24 hours a day.

We employ powerful clot-dissolving drugs. Drugs that can save lives by stopping and, in some instances, actually reversing the effects of heart attacks. But the sooner these drugs are administered the better the chance of a complete recovery.

And advanced diagnostic capabilities, including our state-of-the-art cardiac catheterization laboratory, help us assess and treat heart problems more accurately and effectively than ever.

We also offer educational programs that help people prevent heart attacks, and rehabilitation services that help heart patients recover faster and more fully.

Learn more about The Heart Center at NorthShore Regional Medical Center by calling (504) 641-MDMD and we'll send you a free brochure that describes our cardiac care services in greater detail.

Remember, don't deny any symptoms of a heart attack. If you have symptoms, go to the nearest hospital emergency department. If you're close to NorthShore Regional Medical Center, use the Heart Emergency Service in our Emergency Department located just east of Interstate 10 on 190 — Exit 266 — Gause Boulevard. Or call the 24-Hour Heartline™ at 1-800-HEART13. Don't delay. Because self-denial is hazardous to your health.
